CENTRE COUNTY CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION JULY 25 & 26.

REPUBLICANS OF CENTRE

Select C. P. Long and W. M. Mellick as Delegates to State Convention.

THEY DO NOT WEAR QUAY'S COLLAR

Ringing Resolutions Adopted Endorsing the Administration of President McKinley-The Debauchery of the Ballot Box by a Corrupt Machine Fearlessly Denounced.

J. C. MILLER, BELLEFONTE, PRESIDED

The Republicans of Centre County met in convention at the Court House at 11 o'clock Tuesday for the purpose of electing two delegates to the State Convention at Harrisburg. The attendance was quite large and very few absentees iwere noted during the call of the roll of delegates.

Chairman Wilbur F. Reeder called the convention to order and secretary H. C. Quigley Esq. read the call, after this the roll of delegates was called by J. Thomas Mitchell. Gen. Hastings was substituted for one of the delegates from the North ward of Bellefonte and Hon. P. E. Womelsdorf for one from a ward in Philipsburg.

On a motion of Gen. Hastings, John C. Miller, of Bellefonte, was nominated for chairman of the convention. There being no other nominations Mr. Miller was elected by acclamation. In the same manner George L. Potter, of Bellefonte, and De Long Stewart, of Burnside, were chosen secretaries and J. Thomas Mitchell, of Bellefonte, was appointed reading clerk.

John C. Miller on taking the chair made a short speech in which he thanked the convention for the honor conferred and extended the hope that the spirit of harmony might prevail.

The following committee on resolutions was appointed by the chair, D. G. Stewart, of Snow Shoe; S. H. Diehl, of Bellefonte; William Allison, of Spring Mills; Joseph Hettinger, of Boalsburg, and E. M. Lucas, of Union.

Mr. Womelsdorf objected to the seating of a delegate from South Philipsburg and in order to settle the matter Gen. Hasting's moved that a committee of three on contested seats be appointed to hear all such claims. It was so ordered and J. I. Yarnell, David Rinesmith, and J. E. Bitner were appointed on said committee.

The next thing in order was the election of two delegates to the State Convention. C. P. Long, of Spring Mills; Philip E. Womelsdorf, of Philipsburg; W. E. Gray, of Bellefonte and W. M. Mellick of Philipsburg were placed in nomination.

The adhesents of Quay in the county had selected Gray and Womelsdorf as their candidates while the Anti-Quay people chose Long and Mellick. The fact that the Quay people had been working in secret for three or four weeks while the Anti-Quay people did not begin to fight until the last few days of the canvass, makes the result a greater victory for the anti-Quay forces which shows the tremendous sentiment in the county against Quay. Had the Anti-Quay forces made a hot fight as they did last summer the Quayites would have again been beaten three to one.

The roll of delegates was called by clerk Mitchell and the result was as follows:

C. P. Long. 48½
W. M. Mellick 45
W. E. Gray 37
P. E. Womelsdorf 33½

Long and Mellick having a clear majority of the votes cast were therefore duly declared elected delegates to the State Convention. The result was greeted with loud and enthusiastic applause.

Towards the close of the convention P. E. Womelsdorf, of Philipsburg, created a disturbance by actions which were clearly contrary to all parliamentary rules. It was after the report of the committee on contested seats had been heard which seated the contesting delegates from South Philipsburg. Mr Womelsdorf was clearly out of order and should have known better; had he bided his time he would have had a fair hearing.

The convention adjourned after adopting the following ringing resolutions.

The Republican party of Centre County in convention assembled do hereby declare:

First:—We enthusiastically endorse the administration of William McKinley. His policy of devotion to the American protective system; his adherence to the principles which have established our financial system upon an enduring basis, free from all the heresies which have heretofore threatened our commercial stability; his brave and courageous defence of our country's honor in War with Spain and his just and vigorous defence of the rights of those, who, by the fortunes of war, have a claim upon the nation, have entitled him to the respect and honor which is now so universally accorded him by the American people.

Second:—We deplore the unlawful, un-American and un-Republican exhibitions of ballot box frauds which have so repeatedly brought dishonor upon the fair fame of the Commonwealth. The foundation and perpetuity of our government rests upon the sacred honor of the ballot and every effort to thwart the will of the people by means of ballot box stuffing, bribery and kindred debauchery must meet with prompt and effective retribution. We have beheld the sanctity of the ballot dishonored and polluted in our own metropolis by both federal and municipal public officials, and we call the attention of the people of the Commonwealth to witness the pressing necessity for a higher moral standard with reference to the integrity of all elections both primary and general.

$30,000 FIRE.

Destroyed Several Buildings at Lewisburg.

At Lewisburg Friday afternoon fire broke out in the plant of the Central Electric and Foundry company and in a short time had spread over an entire square. A number of frame buildings and the foundry were completely destroyed. A high wind fanned the flames and carried burning embers to a number of business blocks which took fire. The situation was so threatening that the authorities telephoned to Milton, four miles distant, and to Sunbury, ten miles away, for assistance. The former arrived here on a special train, but just as the Sunbury company was about to leave that place the order to them was revoked.

The business block was badly damaged as well as the Opera house building. The total loss is $30,000, partially covered by insurance. The fire originated from a furnace in the foundry.

A Pathetic Ballad.

Father, dear father, come home with; me now, for ma has some carpets to beat she's got all the furniture out in the yard from the front door clean out to the street. The stove must come down and be put in the shed, and the yard must be cleaned of some grass, for it's time to clean house and the devil's to pay—and the front windows need some new glass. Father, dear father, come home with me now, and bring some bologna and cheese, it's most 12 o'clock and there's nothing to eat—I'm so hungry I'm weak in the knees. All the dinner we'll have will be cold scraps and such, and we'll have to eat standing up, too, for the table and all are out in the backyard, oh, I wish that house cleaning was through. Father dear father, come home with me now, for ma is as mad as a Turk; she says you're only a lazy old thing, and that she shall put you to work. There's painting to do and paper to hang, and the windows and casing to scrub, for it's house cleaning time and you've got to come home and revel in suds and cold grub.

A Child Badly Burned.

A few days ago the 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs George Gamble, of Nippenose township, Clinton county while playing alone in the kitchen, poured a quantity of kerosene from the can into an old tin can. Climbing on a chair she began sprinkling the fluid on the stove. The flames communicated to the can. The child's screams summoned the mother from an other part of the house. She found the child's dress on fire and her hair a mass of flames. The mother wrapped the child in a piece of carpet and extinguished the flames Mrs. Gamble's face and arms were badly burned. The child's face, arms and neck were frightfully burned, but it is believed that she will recover.

LOVED ONES WHO HAVE GONE

Mrs. Mariamna J. Chambers Expires At Her Bellefonte Home

Her Father Owned the Famous Staples Mills Which Were Burned by Sheridan During the Rebellion—She Was a First Cousin of the Present U. S. Senator from Virginia.

GRIM REAPER BUSY IN MANY HOMES.

For the past two weeks the life of Mrs. Mariamna J. Chambers of Bellefonte, has been hanging by a slender thread, and tenderly watched by her loving children and friends the feeble spark of life gradually grew dimmer and dimmer until finally she passed away to the great beyond Sunday morning at 4 o'clock.

Several weeks ago she was seized with a severe attack of the lagrippe which greatly weakened her constitution finally culminating in heart trouble and other complications which led to her death.

Deceased was a southern lady of pleasing manner and a thoroughly conscientious christian woman. Her maiden name was Mariamna J. Staples and she was born in the little village at Scottsville, Albermarle County, Virginia, March 24th, 1824, making her age of time of death 76 years and 14 days. She was the daughter of a wealthy southern planter, Beverly Staples, who besides owning a large plantation and other real estate was the owner of the famous Staples flour mills which were burned by Sheridan during his famous march through Virginia.

In 1846 at the age of 22 she was united it marriage to Rev. Elijah Chamber's a prominent Methodist Episcopal minister of his day, and a member at that time of the Virginia conference. Later they located at Stormstown, Centre County, and afterwards on a farm at State College where the lived most of the time until after the death of her husband which occurred October 24th 1883.

Deceased was connected with some of the most prominent families in Virginia being a first cousin of Thomas Martin, the present United Senator from Virginia. Since the death of her husband she has spent the greater part of her time in Bellefonte where the most of her children reside.

Six children survive to mourn the loss of a loving mother, namely, Edward R., Etta, wife of William Larimer, and William, all of Bellefonte; Mrs. Nannie Williard, of Williamsport, James T., of DuBois and George of McCean, Armstrong county, Pa.

Mrs. Chambers was an earnest member of the Methodist church, and always took a great interest in church work, where her wise counsel and kindly assistance was always appreciated.

Funeral services over the remains were held at the residence of her son Edward R. Chambers, on East Linn street, Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, pastor of the Methodist church spoke very eloquently of the departed one. There was quite a large attendance of sorrowing friends and relatives and many floral tributes were received.

Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock the funeral cortege left the Chambers house and proceeded to Gray's cemetery near Stormstown where the interment was made. The pall-bearers were W. E. Gray, Samuel B. Miller, John M. Dale, Harry Keller, Coke Bell and W. I. Fleming.

WHEN SUMMER'S JUST AHEAD.

How can the day be dreary,
How can the heart be sad;
How can the soul be weary
When all the winds are glad—
When every bud is leaping,
Triumphant, from its bed,
When March is spent and sleeping,
And summer's just ahead?

There's joy among the flowers,
There's glee upon the hills;
There's laughter in the showers
That swell the leaping rills:
There's gladness in the hedges
Where happy songsters wed,
Exchanging loving pledges,
With summer just ahead.

There's joy in every cluster
Of reeds upon the slope:
Each morning lends new luster
Unto the shield of hope!
Why should a heart beat sadly,
An eye look out with dread,
When all the woods ring gladly
And summer's just ahead!

Crowding of Professions.

The colleges and universities and the law, medical and theological schools are turning out too many for professional work for comfort for those who are striving to make a livelihood in the learned professions The same trouble exists in Germany, where we are told a journeyman brewer makes better wages than the salary of a Greek professor in a German university. Hence a good many of the over-educated who cannot make a living by their learning are enlisting in the socialist and anarchist ranks. Mechanical pursuits are as overcrowded as the professions. The overcrowding of the professions in Chicago is becoming intensified. It is estimated that out of a total of 4,000 lawyers in Chicago 500 are handling the litigation of the city, and only about 200 are making $5,000 or over each year. When the legitimate business of the courts has not shown any marked increase, the influx of lawyers from the country has been steady and uninterrupted and the stream of Blackstonians has been yearly augmented by heavy contributions from the colleges and universities. Of doctors the number in Chicago is estimated at 4,000. If the city has a population of 2,000,000, this would give a physician to every 500 inhabitants, which means that there are four or five times as many physicians as are needed. Commenting on the conditions, the Chicago Times-Herald says: "As a matter of fact, almost any artisan now commands a better annual income than three-fourths of the lawyers and doctors, while the mercantile pursuits are much more profitable in spite of the modern tendency toward big combinations."

Runaway Bellefonte Couple Arrested at Tyrone.

Samuel Garrett Elopes With a Mrs. Bathurst—He left a Wife and Daughters and the Woman a Husband—Both are Now in Durance Vile.

OUTRAGED WIFE WILL PROSECUTE.

The Altoona Times of Monday morning contained the following:

County Detective J. W. Rightnour, of Centre county, arrived in this city last night in search of a couple of elopers. He landed them and left on eastern express for Bellefonte.

About two weeks ago Samuel Garrett and Mrs Bathurst left Bellefonte together. Incidentally Garrett left a wife and one daughter behind and Mrs. Bathurst also left a husband. All track of them was lost for a time, and Mrs. Garrett made information against her recreant spouse before a justice of the peace, charging him with desertion and also with adultery.

The couple was not apprehended nor was anything heard of them until Saturday last, when Mrs Garrett received a telegram from her husband, asking her to meet him, the lady handed the message to Detective Rightnour. That gentleman boarded the train and went to Tyrone.

He waited around the depot until the arrival of mail express from the west and almost the first man to get off was Garrett The officer promptly placed him under arrest and asked where the woman in the case was. The man refused to tell and it was only by threatening to lock the fellow up that the information was gotten out of him. He finally admitted that she was in this city, and said if the officer would not put him in prison he would come along to Altoona and take the detective to the house where she was staying. This was just what was wanted and the offer was accepted.

In company with Officers Wands and Rightnour, Garrett came to this city and went to a house on Willow avenue, where Mrs. Bathurst was visiting friends. She was also placed under arrest, and the couple was then taken to the station and to Tyrone on eastern express.

The couple had came in from Pittsburg on mail express. The woman stopped off and the man went on to Tyrone, where he expected to meet his wife, but met the officer instead.

This is not the first time the couple has figured in escapades of this kind, as it is alleged that they have been away from Bellefonte on similar trips previous to this one.

The couple will be held in Tyrone until this morning and will then be taken to Bellefonte.

An Exciting Runaway.

A very exciting runaway occurred on Water street Sunday evening at about 7 o'clock. John Reilly Jr., and Harry Walkey were taking a Sunday evening drive behind Jesse Cox's span of blacks. They drove out Water street as far as Reynold's mill and in making the turn to come back in some manner the buggy upset and both occupants were thrown out. The frightened horses came in Water street at a break neck speed scattering the people to the right and left until they reached the High street bridge where they crashed into one of the big iron girders on the side next to the Bush House. One of the horses was apparently uninjured while the other was knocked down and stunned. Its head was badly cut and bruised from striking the iron girders. Mr. Cox informed us however this morning that the horse was not seriously injured and would recover. Fortunately the buggy was not damaged to any great extent and Messrs Walkey and Reilly both escaped without injury.

A Narrow Escape.

Saturday evening as the local freight on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad was running between Howard and Eagleville, a young child of George Reigle was seen walking on the tracks. As the train could not be stopped in time, Thomas Minary stepped out on the pilot of the engine, with the intention of grabbing the little one. When the engine was within a few feet of the child, the little one stumbled and fell on the edge of the ties outside the rail. The train passed by, when the child was seen to rise and walk away. It has since been learned the the child was slightly bruised on the head.

—It is not a safe plan for any one to carry a check any length of time. It should be presented for payment as soon as possible after it is issued, If you hold a check until its maker dies, banks promptly stop payment on a check even if there is plenty of money to the man's credit. Then the debt for which the check was payment must take its chances with other charges against the estate and be paid in full or in part, according to how the estate terminates.

—Constable Harrison Stine, of South Philipsburg, took John Hurley to Bellefonte jail this morning. His mind has been somewhat affected for sometime, and it was considered unwise to allow him to be at large. He has been in Tioga county for several months, where he had his hands and one of his feet badly frozen, and had become a charge on the authorities there, who requested that they should be relieved of the expense and care incurred in looking after him. He was brought home by the South Philipsburg authorities.—Friday's Philipsburg Journal.

The drawbacks of a town are those persons who are devoid of public spirit and block the way of such as are progressive and full of enterprise; jealousy governs such.—President Harrison.

Some men are so lost to honor that they will prostitute their church, as well as their party, to accomplish a selfish end and those persons whom they can't use they will abuse.—Rev. Dr. Storrs.

ANOTHER BELLEFONTE BOY.

Writes An Interesting Letter Home from the Philippines.

In our last issue we published a letter from George Sunday of Co. D 47th. Regiment today we take pleasure in publishing one from Private Milton Reed, of Co. G of the same regiment. His company is stationed in a town several miles from where Corporal Sunday's company is located.

The letter is addressed to his brother George Reed of this place and is in part as follows:

ALBAY, LUZON ISLAND, P. I.
FEB. 17, 1900.

We are now located about 200 miles south of Manila at a town by the name of Albay. It is about two miles from the coast and we landed here on the 23rd. of January at about 12 o'clock noon and became engaged in our first battle and I can tell you that it was a hot battle while it lasted. It was about two hours from the time the first shot was fired until we hauled down the Filipino flag. There was about five hundred of the enemy strongly entrenched, and we could not make a landing until the gun boat Nashville shelled the trenches and then there was fifty of us that made the first landing, ten men from each company, and we all came out of it lucky, for we never lost a man and had only one wounded.

The enemy's loss was heavy, 47 killed, 13 wounded (some of whom died later) and 23 captured. The total being 83 all told. We are right on the firing line and we are getting all the scrap that we want. We are quartered in an old church and all we need to do is to step out of the rear door of the church and we can get all the shooting we wish for. Some may say that the natives here are cowards but the are not for they put up a good hard fight. Some of them have guns but very few. The most of them have what they call Bolos in other words a macheto, and then they use bows and arrows. They are a dangerous weapon for a person cannot see or hear them until they hit you. We have captured three towns here within a radius of about 3 miles. The towns are all deserted and the people have gone up into the mountains and left their homes and all behind.

We are living high here for there are lots of hogs, chickens and ducks and we can have what ever we wish for. We had fresh pork yesterday for dinner.

We are going to take another town as soon as re-inforcements arrive. There is only one company here and one company in the town along the coast and two companies in the town beyond us. It rains here every ten minutes.

Fire Near Gatesburg.

The large barn on the farm of George W. Rider near Gatesburg caught fire early Thursday morning and was burned to the ground together with all its contents of hay, grain etc. Mr. Rider went to the stable early in the morning to feed his stock and the fire caught from the explosion of a lighted lantern which he carried in his hand. The barn and its contents was insured in W. B. Rankin's agency at this place. Just three years ago Mr. Riders barn was burned in a similar manner.

Car Movement Broke All Records.

All records of the daily movement of cars over the middle division were broken Wednesday when 6,881 cars passed the assistant trainmaster's office at Lewistown. There were 3,318 loaded and four empty eastbound, 802 loaded and 2,687 empty westbound. The former record was made March 25, 1899, when 6,746 cars passed the Lewistown station.

The farmer's wife who raises chickens, knows that they must have food enough first to satisfy bare hunger, then enough more than that to make flesh and fat before they will begin to lay. In plain words you've got to put into the hen in the form of food what you get out of it in the shape of eggs. An ill nourished hen lays no eggs. The difference between the farmer's wife and her chickens is that she fancies she can take out of herself in daily cares and toils what she does not put back in the form of nourishment for nerve and body. But she can't. Sooner or later the woman who tries it breaks down.

The warning signs of physical breakdown are, among others, headache, weak stomach, flatulence, pain in side or back, difficult breathing, palpitation of the heart. These are only some of the indications of a derangement of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. The one sure remedy for this condition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood and nourishes and invigorates the nerves.

Mrs. Martha E. Barham, of Newville, Prince George Co., Va., writes: "I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in June, 1897, also his 'Favorite Prescription,' and I cannot express the benefit I have received from these medicines. I was suffering with what the doctors called chronic indigestion, torpid liver and vertigo. The doctor did not do me any good. My symptoms were giddiness in head, pains in chest and an uneasy feeling all over. I also suffered with female weakness. I was all run-down and could not do any work at all without suffering from nervous attacks, so I wrote to you for advice. You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' When I commenced to use the medicines I weighed only 112 pounds, now I weigh 140 pounds. I thank God and Dr. R. V. Pierce for my recovery."

THE BOER SUCCESSES

Result in Filling the Free Staters With Renewed Hope.

GEN. COLVILLE DISAPPOINTED.

Arrived at Reitfontein Too Late to Disperse a Gathering of Boer Leaders Assembled For Conference. Boer Account of the Late Ambush.

London, April 9.—When it is borne in mind that all the dispatches from the front are severely censored, there is little in the news to bring satisfaction to England. Assurances that nothing need be feared, even if the railways and telegraphs are cut and Bloemfontein isolated, together with the news that the ladies and other civilians are being ordered away, do not augur well.

The Ninth division, under Gen. Colville, marched Wednesday in the direction of Reitfontein, but arrived too late to disperse a gathering of Boer leaders, who had assembled there for conference. The division returned to Bloemfontein yesterday. The failure was due to lack of cavalry horses.

There are rumors from Cape Town that the telegraph wires were already cut yesterday, and also that the Hussars who were sent to the relief of the Royal Irish are also missing, although probably these are the outcome of Boer exaggerations designed to encourage the burghers.

The results of the serious checks to the British arms is that the whole Free State is up again, and that the Boers are full of activity over the entire field.

A belated Boer dispatch says that bayonets were being made for the foreign legion under the late Gen. de Villebois Mareuil.

The Boers are boasting that the Colesberg and Stormberg commandos, numbering 6,000, with ten cannon and 750 wagons, have gotten safely through, thus performing a "magnificent strategic feat."

GENERAL COLVILE.

The Boers have shot a Free State burgher named McCaskill, who was employed by the British as conductor of the wagons which the Boers captured at the Bloemfontein water works.

Gen. Gatacre has retired to Bethany, on orders from headquarters to guard the railway.

A Boer account of the Bloemfontein water works affair says:

"Col. Broadwood evacuated Thaba N'Chu owing to the advance of Commandant Olivier from the south. The federal troops found the British camp in peaceful slumber, without a sentinel or an outpost to give the alarm. Gen. De Wet immediately placed guns and the commandos in such positions as to surround the British, who did not have time to recover from their surprise."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Times discussing the affair, says:

"All the details only serve to bring out clearly the marvelous cleverness of the Boers, no less than the marvelous carelessness and improvidence of the British officers, whom, it would seem, no series of disasters will ever teach to keep wide awake.

"The Boers in Col. Broadwood's rear drove his force into the party at the drift exactly as partridges are driven to a gun. At the drift itself, as each wagon descended the hollow it was shown which way to drive so as not to block the convoy. When the guns arrived the trap was all clear again for their reception. As one who was present said, 'It was like a cloakroom. The Boers politely took your rifle and asked you kindly to step to one side. There was nothing else for you to do.'"

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily News, telegraphing on Friday, says: Owing to a lack of horses and to the sufferings of the men from pneumonia, due to thin clothing, Lord Roberts has decided not to make a big move until the troops are provided with thicker uniforms.

The Bloemfontein correspondent of The Morning Post, telegraphing Friday, says: No anxiety need be felt as the security of Bloemfontein, although the enemy may succeed in destroying telegraphic communication and even in cutting the railway for a brief period. A number of civilians, including Lady Bentnick and Lady Edward Cecil, who arrived here recently from Cape Town, left today in compliance with a general order issued by the authorities.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Pennsylvania's Liberality.

The public school system was established in Pennsylvania way back in the thirties, yet it was not until 1874—forty years after—that the Commonwealth made appropriation toward supporting the educational institutions. At that winter's session of the Legislature, says a writer in the West Grove "Independent," a bill was passed authorizing $1,000,000 State aid for the common schools, and this amount co-operate effectively with local taxation in advancing school interests. For thirteen years the Commonwealth's appropriation remained at the $1,000,000 figure, when the allowance was increased to $1,500,000. In 1889 the amount was raised to $2,000,000, and in 1891 to $5,000,000 annually, the largest common school support of any State in the Union. An additional expense of $500,000 was assumed by the commonwealth in 1893, by authority given school directors to furnish free text books to pupils.

The liberality of Pennsylvania's taxpayers was not limited to the above regular appropriations to the spread of education. To the sixty-seven county superintendents of schools there is annually paid an aggregate of $108,000, toward the support of the thirteen normal schools of the State a total of $241,798, to say nothing of $164,000 yearly to the soldiers' orphans' schools.

TRYING TO PUSH QUAY CASE.

Senator Chandler's Endeavor to Secure an Early Vote.

Washington, April 9.—Senator Chandler probably will make an effort today to get the senate to agree upon a day for taking a vote on the resolution concerning the seating of Senator Quay. The present indications are that for the present he will fail to secure unanimous consent, and in any event the discussion of the resolutions will proceed. Among the senators who are expected to engage in the discussion are Senators Burrows, Quarles and Platt of Connecticut, all of whom oppose the seating of Mr. Quay. The Indian appropriation bill will continue to receive attention until disposed of, but it is not expected to occasion a great deal more of debate. Senator Carter hopes to proceed with the consideration of the Alaskan code bill early in the week, with the hope of securing action at an early day. On Wednesday Senator Lodge will ask the senate to vote upon the Philippine temporary measure, but he does not expect to accomplish more than to get a day fixed for the vote.

The feature of the week in the house will be the closing fight on the Puerto Rican tariff bill. The Republican managers will carry out the program agreed upon in caucus on Wednesday, when a special rule will be presented which will bring the motion to concur in the senate amendments to a vote after several hours' debate. Both sides are laboring earnestly to poll their full strength, but the Republicans appear to be confident that the motion will carry by a safe margin. They assert that the Republican opposition will not be over seven votes, the number who voted against the original bill.

Trying to Avert a Big Mine Strike.

Cumberland, Md., April 9.—Organizer Warner and President Barber, of the United Mine Workers' union, conferred yesterday with a committee of Frostburg business men, looking to a settlement of the impending strike of the 1,800 men employed by the Consolidation Coal company. It was decided that the citizens' committee of five, together with eight union and non-union miners, should wait upon President C. K. Lord, of the Consolidation Coal company, with a view to settling peaceably the existing troubles. It is the purpose of the committees appointed to try to secure the reinstatement of men discharged, as well as to discuss an increase of five cents per ton in the scale of wages.

A RIOT AT TIPPERARY.

Excursionists Who Had Honored Their Sovereign Roughly Treated.

Dublin, April 9.—On the arrival yesterday at Tipperary of a train of excursionists who had been to see the queen, a large crowd, which had gathered at the Railway hotel, hooted the excursionists, many of the girls being roughly handled and pelted with mud. Some had their clothes torn and others were even struck. Almost at the same time a rick of hay, the property of a firm who had given their employes a holiday to go to Dublin, was set on fire, and the rioters prevented any attempt to extinguish the flames. When the military brought the fire hose to the scene they found it had been cut in 20 places.

Yesterday morning Queen Victoria attended service in the private chapel of the vice regal lodge. In the afternoon the queen took her customary country drive. Everywhere she met with an enthusiastic reception.

Owing to train delays a party of children arrived Saturday too late for the children's reception. The queen, hearing of their disappointment, had them brought to the gates of the vice regal lodge yesterday and then drove slowly through their ranks on her way to the country drive, to their keen delight.

Big Deal in Coal

An English syndicate of coal dealers is said to have closed a deal by which 2,000,000 tons of Alabama coal are to be delivered at the port of New Orleans for exportation within two years' time. The purchase price agreed upon in the contract is said to be 75 cents a ton at the mouth of the coal pits. Fifty cents a ton is to be allowed for transportation to New Orleans. The entire 2,000,000 tons are to be released and shipped by steamers at that port.

The English syndicate will run its own line of steamers direct to New Orleans, and the ordinary brokerage in handling the ships is to be cut off. On an average one steamer is expected to load and sail each month during the twenty-four months' time limit. This is one of the most important financial transactions in the South in recent years.

"Quick lunch" is one of the commonest of city signs. The sign doesn't say "A healthy lunch of good food—the character of the food apparently is not considered. It's just a quick lunch,—eat and get away. Is it any wonder that the stomach breaks down? Food is thrown at it, sloppy, indigestible and innutritious food, very often, and the stomach has to do the best it can. Normally there should be no need for medical assistance for the stomach. But the average method of life is abnormal and while this continues there will always be a demand for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the one medicine which can be relied on to cure diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not a cure—all. It is a medicine designed for the stomach, and to cure through the stomach remote diseases which have their cause in the derangement of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It cures when all else fails.

EDITORIAL.

NEBRASKA is a splendid State, but it doesn't produce a superior grade of political platforms.

UNLESS something is done soon this "fictitious" prosperity is in danger of becoming permanent.

IF COL. JACK CHINN takes to the lecture platform he will probably pose as an animated cutlery establishment.

IT IS said that the ball players of the country may go on a strike. What else should they do—except perhaps catch and run bases?

JUST to show that race prejudices are dying out in the South a party of Virginians turned out the other day and lynched a white man.

UNCLE SAM'S new 2 per cent bonds are quoted at 104 and yet the Democratic calamity howlers insist that the country is going straight to smash.

THE Tammany officials of New York are accusing each other of dishonesty. When gentlemen of that character fail to agree the taxpayer generally gets his due.

WHEN the people take a vote in November on the question of expansion the Democratic leaders will have to fall back on the old reliable didn't-know-it-was-loaded explanation.

WE DOUBT seriously the wisdom of Senator Spooner's effort to show Senator Tillman the error of his way. The gentleman from Wisconsin should bear in mind the Spanish proverb which declares it to be "a waste of lather to shave an ass."

THANKS to the votes of Republican legislators and the signature of a Republican President, every dollar Mr. Bryan receives from his lecture tours and every dollar Coin Harvey secures from the sale of his books will be worth 100 cents.

THE Republican nominee for governor of Rhode Island began life as a mill boy and to-day is the head of one of the largest manufacturing establishments in that State. We seldom find a self made man who started in as a boy orator.

SENATOR PETTIGREW has been in Cuba trying to sow the seeds of discontent among the people of that island. The Cubans have experienced considerable trouble in the past and if they will profit by their experience they should beware of Pettigrewism.

AN interesting conversation occurred between a distinquished Quay leader of Bellefonte and an Anti-Quay delegate from a Bald *E*agle Valley township on Tuesday, immediately after the close of the county convention. It proved to be an attempt of retaliation that failed in its mission. The joke is on the d. q. l. of Bellefonte.

THE Republican party is broad enough and wise enough to forgive its leaders for sometimes making mistakes, if they will only vote their honest convictions. But when a Senator holds joint debate with himself, within a month and votes in two directions within an hour, the party cannot help asking what his convictions are.

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

That harmony is not yet prepared to enter into the councils of the Republican party in Centre County was most manifestly exhibited in the proceedings, and result as well, of the party convention held in Bellefonte on Tuesday of this week. Not in many years, if ever, was a Centre County Republican convention so conspicuously, so lamentably deficient in those qualities which denote the presence of gentlemen in conference assembled as was that of Tuesday's. Embittered by the sting of defeat, angered by the success of a superior force and impelled to a display of rowdyism peculiar to the usual delegation to county conventions from that section of the county they so brilliantly represented, the coterie of machine puppets from the hot bed of Quayism in Centre County plunged the convention into a state of disorder and pandemonium that not only forced an adjournment before the work of the convention had been completed, but brought discredit upon those who were in no wise associated with the intemperate faction whose conduct was a disgrace to the community and the citizens they represented.

Perhaps the least said of the convention the better. There are a few palpable conclusions, however, to be drawn from the issue of the convention upon which it is timely to remark. It must be apparent to the most obtuse citizen that the Republican party in Centre County is divided against itself and so intense is the factional feeling that hope of harmony and a re-united party cannot find a place in the heart of even the most optimistic Republican in the county. Quayism is the rock upon which the Republicans of Centre County have split and so long as Quayism continues a factor in Republican politics so long will the Republican party in the county be at variance. This situation is regretable of course but it is not peculiar to Centre County. A similar condition exists in every county in the Commonwealth to a greater or less degree. The breach is growing wider in every section of the State. The fight against Quay and machine rule is on and will continue the main issue in Republican politics until the party is freed from its bonds of Quayism and cleansed of the impurities of machine government. It was supposed that the crushing defeat administered to the Quayites of Centre County last year would have proven all sufficient and convinced them of the futility of further effort to control the Republican organization in the county and shape its political course. But inspired doubtless with the hope that a "still hunt" would give them a victory over their opponents they are again stood up only to be knocked down and made to feel the full power of a superior political sagacity and the irresistible force of the Anti-Quay sentiment in the county. The result of Tuesday's convention gives unmistakable evidence to the people of Pennsylvania that Centre County is beyond doubt an Anti-Quay county and will continue to be.

The resolutions of the convention enthusiastically endorsed and ratified by the Anti-Quay majority and thrust down the throats of a disorganized and defeated opposition, declared the loyalty and allegience of the Centre County Republicans to President McKinley, and embodied a deserved endorsement of his incomparable administration. They passed over the "misadministration" of Quay's own governor as, it would seem by implication, unworthy of even condemnation. They denounced the machine whose authority in the State government and whose power in the Republican party of Pennsylvania is to the dishonor of one and to the ultimate destruction of the other. The resolutions were the embodiment of true Republican principles, an expression of a citizenship desirous of pure government, honest elections and faithful service in public officials. Recognizing the fact that the realization of these laudable aspirations can only be attained through the overthrow of machine rule the Republicans of Centre County have again reiterated their purpose to stand with the insurgents in the battle for the redemption of the Commonwealth and the preservation of the Republican party in Pennsylvania.

DEWEY'S CANDIDACY.

Admiral Dewey has concluded, and with a sense of judgment that can scarcely be credited to him in the light of recent events, that he cannot win the Republican nomination for the Presidency from Mc-Kinley and has declared himself a Democrat—any port in a storm for the sailor candidate. The Admiral evidently hopes to compete with Bryan for the Democratic nomination and just as manifestly he is backed by Democratic leaders who are opposed to the Chicago platform, Mr. Bryan's stock in trade. Whether he can wrest the nomination from the Nebraskan and whether, if not, he will consent to enter the Presidential running as an Independent candidate, remains to be seen. It is not likely that he will find much hope in defeating Mr. Bryan and it depends largely how completely he is hypnotized by his friends and his ambitious wife whether he will lead an independent movement. If he does the future alone will reveal from which candidate—McKinley or Bryan—he will draw most largely. By a singular contradiction he will probably receive the votes of the Anti-expansion Republicans and the expansion and gold Democrats—men who cannot vote for Bryan and yet do not wish to support the Republican nominee. Then there is what may be termed the "enthusiasm" vote which will naturally come from all parties and which cannot be approximately estimated.

The Bryan men are not a little disturbed by the Admiral's announcement of his political predelections, although they will not admit it, and are trying, it is said, to buy him off with suggestions that he can have the second place on the ticket with Bryan. It would seem incredible that he should consent to play the tail to Bryan's kite, but the thirst for high official station is a fever that usually runs its course when ambition plays its irresistible melody on the heart of a victim and it is difficult to presage what the Admiral will be persuaded in doing. Everybody knows that Dewey of himself would never have come out for the Presidency. It is well understood that he has been and is being urged thereto by Mrs. Dewey, who yearns for precedence at all social functions and would like to be "first lady of the land." It may be that if it be proved that the Admiral cannot get the first place, his wife will be content with the second. As the wife of the Vice President she would precede everyone except the President. To attain this social distinction she may be willing to accept second place on the Democratic ticket for her dear George. Surely Dewey is as a puppet in the hands of an ambitious woman.

THE absurdity of the assertion that the trusts want a tariff on Porto Rican goods has been well demonstrated by Senator Foraker's disclosure of the fact that nearly all the duties collected under the present tariff on goods from Porto Rico have been paid by the sugar trusts. To argue that the trust or any one else likes to pay duties is to contend in favor of an absurdity.

The Porto Rican bill which has passed the Senate will pass the House in due time, that is practically assured. No doubt the trusts would like to defeat it and force free trade on the country, despite the evils that must result from unrestricted intercourse with Porto Rico, and the Philippines in time. The Republican party will see that they fail.

THE Boers seem to be getting back to their old tricks. Killing and capturing some 500 British soldiers a week without appreciable loss to themselves, seems to be the regular thing with them once more.

ADMIRAL DEWEY has consented to run for President, but there seems to be very little enthusiasm occasioned by the announcement, except that which bubbles forth daily from his wife and himself.

QUAY AND ANTI-QUAY TO DATE.

Of the nominations for the lower house of the Pennsylvania Legislature made at the primaries last Saturday Mr. Quay gets ten and the opposition an equal number. This calculation concedes to Mr. Quay the candidate in Clinton County, who is claimed both ways, and it also concedes the candidate nominated in the certain Democratic district of Luzerne where no Republican will be elected.

So far eighty-two members have been nominated in districts which in the last Legislature were represented as follows:

Quayites, 47.
Anti-Quay, 15.
Democrats, 20.

In the nominations so far made in districts represented by Republicans in the last Legislature Mr. Quay has suffered a loss of fifteen, which is so much gain to the opposition, so that counting the Democratic districts the same as before the nominations for the next Legislature stand as follows:

Quayites, 32.
Anti Quay, 30.
Democrats, 20.

In the twenty districts with Democratic representatives in the last House Quayites have been nominated in sixteen—largely by default, because it was not worth while to contest for nominations pretty certain to be beaten—and the opposition has made nominations in four. The change in a Democratic district here or there will not relatively change the figures given above.

Six nominations for State Senator have so far been made. In Lancaster, Erie and Westmoreland Counties, and in the district composed of Indiana and Jefferson, Quay men have been nominated to succeed the Quay men who represented these districts in the last Legislature; though in no instance has the machine dared to nominate the man who served at the last session and submit his record to the judgment of the people. In Allegheny County Senator Magee and Senator Crawford have been renominated. Both of them attended the Quay caucus last year and voted for Quay until near the end of the session, but both are now opposed to him.

We believe the figures here given to be as nearly correct as can be under the circumstances. They are based upon carefully sifted information, and are printed with the confidence that they will stand the test which time must subject them to. We are aware that they do not agree with the figures which the organs of Quayism are giving out but it is the business af those organs to make claims, however false. Claims have always been a campaign resource of the machine. It is our business to ascertain and print the facts.—Philadelphia Press.

PORTO RICO AND THE CONSTITUTION.

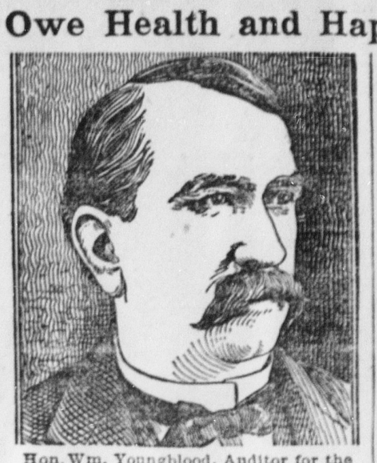
Two legal proceedings have been gotten under way within the past week which tend to solve the vexed question as to whether the Constitution of the United States extends to our recently acquired island territory without act of Congress. One is the case of Jorge Cruz, of Porto Rico, who was brought to the United States under contract, and was stopped at Ellis Island under the contract labor laws. Secretary of the Treasury Gage has instructed the Ellis Island officials to permit the landing of Cruz, stating that the Department prefers to proceed against the man who brought him to this country, by bringing a civil suit for $1,000, the penalty for bringing in laborers under contract.

The other case is that of Ramon Bax, who was sentenced by a military court, and has sued for habeas corpus on the ground that he had not been granted a jury trial, as required by the Constitution. The brief of the Attorney General, filed recently, asserts that the Constitution does not extend to Porto Rico, the island still being under control of the military authorities.

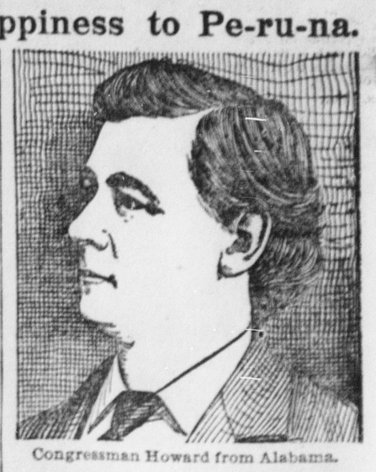
THE prosperity of Colorado is so pronounced that there is said to be a favorable possibility of that State turning its back upon Bryanism. Experience is a great educator.

TWO VERY PROMINENT PUBLIC MEN

Owe Health and Happiness to Pe-ru-na.



Hon. Wm. Youngblood, Auditor for the Interior.



Congressman Howard from Alabama.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10, 1898.

Pe-ru-na Drug M'f'g Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—I've often heard of your great medicine and have persuaded my wife, who has been much of a sufferer from catarrh, to try Pe-ru-na, and after using one bottle she has wonderfully improved. It has proved all you have claimed for it, and I take pleasure in recommending it to anyone who is afflicted with catarrh. Yours,

Wm. Youngblood,
Auditor for the Interior.

Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a national curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Pe-ru-na cures catarrh in all stages and phases. There is no remedy that can be substituted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4th, 1899.

Pe-ru-na Drug M'f'g Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—I have taken Pe-ru-na now for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for la grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Pe-ru-na as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers.

Very Respectfully, M. W. Howard.

Congressman Howard's home address is Fort Payne, Ala.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., for a free catarrh book.

MORE VICTORIES AGAINST MACHINE.

MAGEE AND FLINN IN THE FIGHT

The Former Declares Against the Machine's Pollution of the Ballot Box—Senator Flinn Endorsed and Urged to Keep Up His Great Fight Against Quay—The Insurgents Making Big Gains in the Primaries All Over the State—Philadelphia Frauds Denounced.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Harrisburg, April 10.—The swelling tide of anti-machine and anti-Quay success continues to rise all over the state. The great triumph in Allegheny county, in which ex-Senator Andrews and the Quay henchmen were so badly defeated that Andrews and his delegates did not even appear in the convention hall, was followed up last week by brilliant victories in other counties of the state. In some of the counties in which primaries were held last Saturday no contest was made by the anti-Quayites, while in others, notably Westmoreland, Warren and Luzerne, overwhelming victories were won by the opponents of Senator Quay.

In Warren county E. W. Parshall, who was one of the most subservient of the Quay followers in the last legislature, suffered defeat by a majority of over 1,200 for his opponent, Mr. Baker. The corruption fund in Warren county was worked to the limit, but despite this Parshall succeeded in carrying only 14 precincts out of 47. It is the first time that the Quay issue had come to a fair trial in Warren county, and the result was overwhelmingly against M. S. Quay.

In Center county ex-Governor Hastings, for a second time within six months, led the anti-Quay forces to victory. In Luzerne county the anti-Quayites held their own despite the use of unlimited quantities of cash by the state administration and the promises of census enumerators from Washington.

The result of Saturday's primaries gives the anti-Quay forces a great lead in numbers over the position they occupied in the legislature last year. If the same ratio of gain keeps up in the remaining primaries to be held this spring the opposition to M. S. Quay will be stronger and more formidable than ever before.

PHILADELPHIA FRAUDS DENOUNCED.

A striking feature of the Allegheny county conventions which were held last Tuesday was that six conventions denounced the Quay machine in vigorous terms. The ballot crimes in Philadelphia were handled without mincing words, as the following resolutions adopted at these conventions testify:

"Resolved, That we deplore the perpetration, and denuonce the perpetrators of, the gross election frauds recently practiced in Philadelphia, including not only direct violations of the express terms of our acts of assembly, criminal and civil, but the systematic importation of government employes from Washington and elsewhere; such frauds being so unparalleled and so great in enormity as to shock the country, and bring contempt and disgrace upon our state, and all being done manifestly in the interest of the dominant faction of the Republican party of this commonwealth, and the Republican party of the Sixth legislative district of Allegheny county, in convention assembled, hereby declares in favor of and pledges its nominees to the enactment of laws that will so safeguard the ballot as to secure in the future purity of election and provide adequate punishment of the perpetrators and beneficiaries of such elections.

"Resolved, That the nominees of this convention are hereby instructed to vote against M. S. Quay, head of the dominant faction of the Republican party and chief beneficiary of such fraudulent practices for the office of United States senator from Pennsylvania."

SENATOR FLINN ENDORSED.

In the Seventh district, in which a sweeping victory was gained over the Quay forces, the following additional resolutions were adopted with cheers:

"Whereas, The senator from the Forty-fourth senatorial district, Hon. William Flinn, by his ability, political sagacity and indomitable energy, has stamped himself one of the eminent political leaders of the Republican party of this commonwealth, and has refused to assist in its disruption by the perpetuation of the corrupt and iniquitous system which has so long been a parasite upon it in this state, but that largely through his efforts its true character has been made a matter of public notoriety, and 'Quyaism' has become a term of opprobium and reproach; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the action of the Hon. William Flinn in battling against the efforts of the political aggregation having as its head M. S. Quay to control for its own aggrandizement and not for the benefit of the people the Republican party of the state, meets our unqualified approval, and we here express our confidence in his integrity, ability and leadership."

In the Forty-third senatorial district State Senator C. L. Magee, in accepting a renomination, delivered an address of thanks which set the convention wild and is destined to be one of the keynotes of this campaign. Senator Magee declared against the corruption of the Quay machine in Philadelphia and expressed his willingness to join hands with anybody to put an end to the crime and debauchery that is bringing the name of Pennsylvania into universal disgrace. Senator Magee said:

SENATOR MAGEE'S SPEECH.

"The one great issue before the next legislature, the one that transcends all other issues in importance; the one that goes beyond matter of taxation and appropriations, goes beyond whether the public schools are to have a million dollars more or less, goes beyond the election of United States senator, or any other issue that can possibly come before the legislature, is the issue of a free ballot and a fair count—protection for you and me and every other citizen of this commonwealth in his birthright to cast his ballot as he pleases and have it counted as cast.

"To provide by legislation that it will be impossible for organized bands of ballot thieves to be taken out of the federal service at Washington, sent into this state, to act as dummy election officers, and from local officers receive the ballots enabling them to make returns, and making each of them as powerful as two or three hundred citizens of the commonwealth; for the passage of laws to safeguard the purity of the ballot, and to provide adequate punishment for those who attempt to debauch it, I heartily pledge my vote and influence in the event of my re-election to the senate.

"I am ashamed that the recent developments in the city of Philadelphia show that the debauchery practiced was by the dominant faction of the party to which I belong, but as a Republican I am ready to join hands with anybody to secure the passage of laws to prevent such practices in the future and insure prompt punishment to those who attempt to perpetrate them."

THE Honorable P. E. Womelsdorf, of Philipsburg, the ubiquitous leader of the Quay forces in Tuesday's convention, is said to be growing for State Senator from this district. A few minutes of quiet reflection will doubtless convince him that he will have some trouble in securing the endorsement of his home county.

From Poverty to Riches.

The DeHaven family residing at Mahaffey, Clearfield County, have just fallen heirs to a fortune of $3,626,000, a sum sufficient to make them all rich and they can all retire now to private life. This vast sum comes from Germany and is not one of those visionary fortunes so common in this day, but an absolute certainty.

Over 100 years ago one Jacob DeHaven purchased from the German government a bond calling for $450,000, which bond was never paid and which as now adjusted by the government and the attorneys of the claimants, amounts to the large sum of 3,636,000. For many years these people believed that a vast sum of money was due them but all inquiries failed to bring them anything satisfactory. Finally a Pittsburg lawyer took the matter up and an assessment was made on the parties interested, the DeHaven family at Mahaffey, contributing $100 to start the matter and afterwards contributing assessments of $2 each made as often as the necessities demanded. The Pittsburg lawyer made an examination and had faith that the bond had never been redeemed. For one whole year of constant labor he searched and traced clues, prospects growing brighter every day. After six months he lost all clue and it looked as though his search was a

AN EXCLUSIVE STORY.

A Strange Tale Of Wills-Mayhew, a Little Hindoo and a Murder

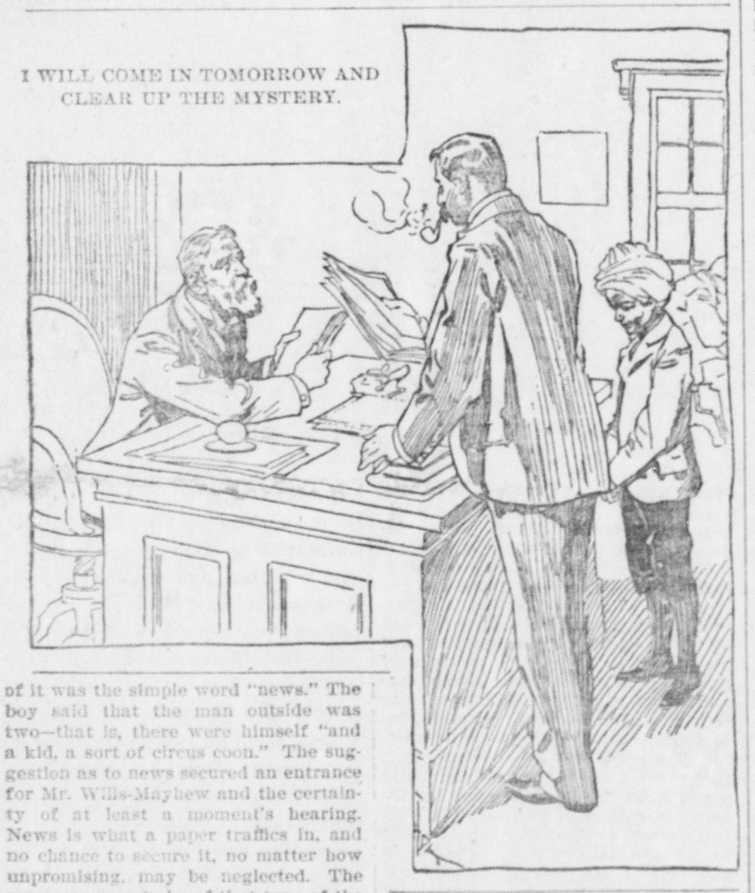
BY LLEWELLA PIERCE CHURCHILL.

Copyright, 1899, by Llewella P. Churchill.

The Cerberus of the office brought in the slip of paper and laid it on top of the copy which the city editor was reading. These slips are the only means by which to protect the time of the paper against the host of men who would fritter away the editor's time.

The office boy waited while Mr. Standish gave the scantiest glance at the memorandum, just enough to gather that Mr. Wills-Mayhew was without and that his errand was to find "journalistic employment." When he had hastily penciled on the slip of paper the terse formula "no possible opening" with which the messenger was to dismiss the several dozenth applicant that day, Mr. Standish did not find his usual facility in putting the common enough incident out of mind.

An Englishman, of course, he reasoned from the name with a stile in the middle of it and shuddered at the bare idea of British journalism in a New York newspaper office, for Standish had been on Fleet street and knew the solemn reliance on the hooks and loops of stenography, which makes the British journalist so very accurate and so very dull. But the boy was back again with the same slip, and across one end of it was the simple word "news." The boy said that the man outside was two—that is, there were himself "and a kid, a sort of circus coon." The suggestion as to news secured an entrance for Mr. Wills-Mayhew and the certainty of at least a moment's hearing. News is what a paper traffics in, and no chance to secure it, no matter how unpromising, may be neglected. The man was seen to be of that type of the British subject for which there is but one adjective—well fed. The easily recognizable signs of his origin were sufficiently pronounced to be unmistakable, yet not great enough to attract to him uncomfortable comment in a crowd. In his companion, a boy in breeches, Standish saw a sight less usual in a newspaper local room. The boy at the door had spoken of him as a "sort of circus coon," but he was clearly not a negro. The hair showed that, and its evidence was confirmed by the regularity of the features and the transparent depth of the dark brown complexion. A little spot painted between the eyebrows showed the lad to be a Hindoo.



I WILL COME IN TOMORROW AND CLEAR UP THE MYSTERY.

Wills-Mayhew explained to Standish that he had the full story of a murder which had just been done in a residence street up town and that as he wanted a place he would write it up to show what he could do.

"But all that sort of thing," replied Standish, "is supplied us by regular channels of information. The police will report the facts in the case, and then, after making our own investigations, we shall give it the space which it may deserve."

"This one is different," rejoined the Englishman. "Without this story of mine you will never learn of the tragic nature of the death, for the body when found will display no signs other than those which attend a sudden but natural death."

"Such a thing is most improbable," said Standish, turning as about to finish the interview. "I do not think that we need consider such a case."

"Still," said Wills-Mayhew, "it will do no harm to try. Just let me sit down here and write up the story, and then you can see what it amounts to. You can form from it your own judgment. No other paper will know anything about it, and over here you seem to attach considerable importance to that sort of thing."

The Englishman went to a desk in a distant corner of the room and sat down to write, the little Hindoo squatting with legs crossed on a chair at his side. Standish watched them take their places and noticed that at the same time that this man with the story of murder, and an exclusive murder at that, drew a bunch of copy paper before him he began to get out pipe and pouch as one who prepares to do a thoughtful piece of work. Then the cares of the city desk pressed on the editor once more, and he ceased to remember the two in their far corner.

Possibly an hour had gone by when Standish passed on some errand of his work in the neighborhood of the big Englishman and the little Hindoo lad. Recalling the nature of their task, he remarked that the man had a bulky pile of completed sheets before him and that his hand was still traveling rapidly over the paper without any interruption of his smoking. But Standish was attracted by the little Hindoo. He sat in the attitude which Indian art has familiarized among the western nations by the images of the countless gods of the peninsula. The lad's eyes were riveted on a ball of glass or crystal which he held in the palms of his two hands, the fingers being interlaced in his lap. In a soft monotone he was speaking rapidly to his companion in a liquid speech which the editor could not identify, but which he thought was probably some one of the many Hindoo tongues. As he passed by them Standish found his glance caught by the glitter of the toy which the boy held, and in the moment of passing he seemed to see a picture in the glitter, a picture as of something happening somewhere. It was just a flash, and he was far too much occupied with other things in think of returning for another look.

Not long after this Wills-Mayhew brought a thick heap of manuscript to the desk and laid it before Standish, who saw that, although it was written in a generous hand, there was matter enough for at least two columns.

"There is the story of the murder," said the Englishman. "You will find it all there except the name and the present place at which the murderer may be found. You can pay me for those at your best rates for good material, and I will come in tomorrow and clear up the mystery which still remains in the story. I cannot do it today, for Abdul is tired out, and I must take him to rest."

A rush of real copy came along just then, and in the hurry the Englishman and the little Hindoo went off together. It was not until comparatively later in the day that Standish found time to look at the copy thus left with him for trial. It did not begin in a very promising way. There were many pages of an introduction which blanketed whatever story might be to follow. There was much moral theorizing, and the apt citation from classical sources showed that the writer was both a man of wide reading and just as widely unfit to be allowed to write a story for an American newspaper. Disgusted at the preface, Standish hastily cut into the middle to see if there were really any story after all the overloaded introduction. Here all was different, as different as the work of another hand, of another mind. There was indeed a story, and it was told in terse, nervous sentences, with the accuracy of detail which only eyewitnessing could give to an account and then only if written on the very spot of the action in progress. Standish worked backward to where the story itself began, laid aside the heavy introduction and read with growing amazement the consistent account of a murder wrought on a young girl. Every needed detail was presented, the girl's name and address were given, and her domestic and social relations were fully set forth. The city editor recognized that it would be necessary to be securely convinced of every point, for the social position of the girl and of her friends was of the highest. The graphic narrative continued with a slight account of the trifles over which the girl was occupied in her own sitting room at the entrance of one who was on terms of sufficient intimacy to be admitted to such freedom. The newcomer was stated in the account to be a woman—at least the feminine pronoun was used throughout. The identity of this second person, even by physical features, was obscure in the story, but there was manifest a psychic familiarity with her motives and passions.

Passing over the commonplaces of such a meeting between intimate women, yet always showing as by a subordinate consciousness the black hatred and wild rage which gushed under the smooth words of the visitor, the English journalist hurried on his dialogue to the point where the murder was done, done with the consent of the victim, gained by the trick of some specious pretext. The weapon was but a common hypodermic syringe, common enough now among the toilet appliances of women on whom social duties press heavily. The young girl shrank a little at sight of the weapon, but her companion assured her that it was no more painful than the prick of a cambric needle and that a single application would instantly cure the headache from which she was suffering. The girl at once consented. A very graphic touch in the narrative was the simple way in which she was represented as passing her hand across her forehead while her companion took the glittering implement of glass and silver from its blue bed of velvet in the leather pocket case, carefully withdrew the bristle from the needle point and screwed the latter into place, having first drawn the piston out to its fullest reach. In the syringe was not a drop of any fluid, nothing but the air of the room. While she was explaining that a charge of pure oxygen would be better, yet that ordinary atmospheric air would produce a satisfactory result, the young girl childishly bade her begin, for her courage was at the sticking point. A deft hand pressed the hollow needle beneath the skin of the girl's left wrist and gently slid it onward into puncture of the most prominently displayed blood vessel, a delicate blue vein in the clear white flesh. A very slight pressure in the ring of the piston forced a single bubble of air—oxygen would have been no better for the purpose—into the vein. The girl was dead, dead in that instant.

There the English journalist's story ended. Standish still held the last sheet of copy in his hand and looked with astonishment at the double cross which showed the finish. It was as though some one who had seen and heard all these incidents had been speaking and had suddenly broken off.

This was a story which needed cautious handling, for Standish at once accepted it as true. With a family of such position as that of the murdered girl, herself already a figure in society, no paper could afford any blunder. A reporter was sent to investigate, and Standish cautiously locked the manuscript in a drawer of his desk. The reporter's story was the account of such a career as may come to a young woman in her first year in society, a record of social successes. She had died suddenly that afternoon in her room. She had received a visit from her most intimate friend, who said that she had complained of a slight headache, but that it had passed away while they were together. An hour later her maid had found her in her easy chair, limp and dead. The family doctor certified to heart failure, for the publicity of an inquest ceases at a certain social level.

Standish seemed puzzled and read the latter part of this copy a second time. Then he unlocked a drawer in his desk, took out a mass of manuscript, turned up the last few pages and read them with care. Finally he called up a medical friend on the telephone, and this was his share of the conversation after the preliminaries incident to that mechanical convenience:

"Tell me, doctor, what would be the result of the injection of a bubble of air into one of the veins of the wrist?'

"Instantaneous, you say, and painless? Then what would an autopsy disclose as to the cause of death?'

"Well, then, if the heart should be found just as it is in certain well known pathological conditions there might be a possibility of foul play. Would not the mark of the syringe be found?"

"Not one chance in a million, you say? Then that may be left out of account. Thank you kindly. Goodby. Ring off."

The regular reporter's story was printed the next morning. Possibly that discouraged Mr. Wills-Mayhew, for he never came again.

Standish now speaks with great respect of the marvels of the Hindoos. He has not yet given up his search for a British journalist accompanied by a young Hindoo named Abdul. Judging from sample, a place could be found for the pair.

Football In Siam.

Lovers of outdoor sports would find one thing to interest them in Siam. It is the native game of football. Harper's Weekly says that it is very interesting to a looker on. It is played with a ball about four inches in diameter, hollow and strong.

The number of contestants varies, but play is sharpest when there are enough to form a circle about ten feet in diameter. Beyond that the larger the circle the slower the play.

The game consists in keeping the ball tossing in the air without breaking the circle. If a man misses his opportunity, he drops out, and when but four or six remain the work is sharp and very pretty.

The ball is struck most frequently with the knee, but also with the foot, from before, behind and at the side of the player. A player has been known to let a ball drop directly behind his back and then, without turning, return it clear over his head and straight into the middle of the circle, all with one well aimed backward kick of his heel.

THE FUNNY MAN'S BEST GIRL.

BY HOWARD FIELDING.

Copyright, 1899, by C. W. Hooke.

You can't pick up a comic paper without reading about me. I am the funny man's best girl. He loves me better than a mother-in-law, or his Chicago girl with the big feet. I am the homely typewriter girl who is employed by the gentleman with the jealous wife.

Few of my readers can realize how hard it is to be a living joke; to be a sister to the banana peel on the sidewalk and to the countryman's carpetbag. Let me assure you that it is very trying.

I wasn't always a homely girl. Five years ago I was quite pretty, and at that period of my life the humble typewriting instrument was far below the level of my ambitions. I expected to marry a rich man, but the rich man married somebody else, and very inopportunely for me, because it was just at that time that we all became poor. My mother's little fortune went to Australia in a trustee's pocket and never came back. So my sister and I had to go to work.

Helen, who was a great expert with the camera and had won prizes in amateur contests until she couldn't have carried her medals in a basket, got a position in a fashionable "studio" at $7 a week, and I studied stenography and typewriting. I worked hard and became good at my trade.

I began my professional career at $5 a week and worked up to $15. Every dollar advance cost me two pounds of flesh. I forgot how to dress or how to fix my hair. There were wrinkles around my eyes, and my mouth was set in an expression suggesting that I fed upon wornout typewriters and other scrap iron. I had stood it well enough until Helen lost her position and mother fell ill. Then I began to do extra work in the evenings and on Sundays, and that was the end of my youth. Oh, it's all true enough—I was a homely old maid at 25!

When I, too, lost my position last spring, I felt—well, as soured and old as I looked. However, it was not my fate long to endure the misery of the unemployed. In less than a fortnight I had secured a position as secretary to Albert Hamlin, the well known lawyer, as the newspapers say.

I never shall forget that day. It was a strange melange of joy and woe, like a life condensed. In the first place, when I was waiting to have my trial I prayed heaven to give me the position, because I wanted so much to spend my days in Mr. Hamlin's offices. They are high up in the Brayton building, and from the windows one can see everything.

All the rooms in Mr. Hamlin's suit were big, handsome, elegant. So was Mr. Hamlin himself. And he looked so young! I felt old beside him, though he was born ten years before I was.

He greeted me as if he really was glad to see me, and of course I never thought there could be a reason for it aside from the courtesy that properly belonged to a man of such an aspect.

The trial of my abilities which followed seemed brief and easy, probably because I expected fate to bar the way to so good a place with unusual difficulties.

I think I breathed twice—maybe three times—in the ten minutes during which Mr. Hamlin was examining my work, but when he said, "This is extremely satisfactory, Miss Blaisdell," I drew one breath long enough to make my average right.

Then he offered me the position of secretary—he was careful to say secretary—and inquired if $20 a week would be satisfactory in the beginning. Twenty dollars a week! Twenty gold mines in the Klondike! Was it satisfactory? Well—

I went to work immediately and really had quite a busy day, though it ended before 5 o'clock.

"You won't find me so diligent on the average," said Mr. Hamlin as he prepared to leave the office. "I usually wind it up about 4. Can you be here at 10 o'clock tomorrow?"

Ten to 4! Was I a banker?

All this was too good to be true, and it came to me with an especial shock of joy because I had just had my first experience of that peculiar fear which comes from the failure to get work—the sensation that all doors are shut and only the way that leads down to abject poverty is left open. When Mr. Hamlin had gone, I actually sang for the first time in months.

Our offices were at the east end of a corridor. Midway down this corridor are branches to right and left, like the arms of a cross, and on the sides of these arms are the elevator shafts.

On my way to an elevator, just before I reached the intersecting hall, I dropped a glove, and as I stooped to pick it up I heard two office boys talking as they waited by the shafts. They and I were not in sight of each other, though so near. One of the boys I knew to be in Mr. Hamlin's employ, and this was the conversation I overheard:

"Al Hamlin's got a new typewriter."

"Homely as the last one?"

"Is she? Say, the other one was a dream alongside of this one. She's a sketch. She looks like 30 cents marked down to 29."

"His wife won't let him hire any other kind, they say."

"And that's right. She's a dragon, for sure. But this new girl will just suit her eye. Thin? Say, she's so thin that the seam down the middle of the back of her dress waist sticks out on both sides of her. When Mr. Hamlin saw her, he knew he'd struck the real thing, and he engaged her in a holy minute. He isn't hunting trouble, that man!"

"Down 11!" cried the elevator man, and down went my heart; down, down into the subcellar of despondency.

Isn't it silly in one to be so hurt by the rough side of the truth? Those boys hadn't told me any news about myself, and why should I care for their opinions? Yet, while I stood there waiting for the next car two big tears of misery welled out of my eyes, and each found a good, deep wrinkle to run away in.

It was mean of fate to spoil my day. I had been so happy, and now I must think all the way home that this big, kindly man whose praise of my work had pleased me so much had really employed me only because I was "a sketch."

There's no doubt that I was hurt. The next morning, though I felt it might jeopardize my bread and butter, I ventured to fix my hair a bit and make my dress look a little more becoming.

Mr. Hamlin seemed to notice the change in my appearance, and I thought he showed alarm. He was in the office only about an hour that forenoon, and I had nothing to do while he was away except watch the vessels in the East river and wonder why I couldn't be cheerful any more.

About 12 o'clock Mrs. Hamlin suddenly appeared. I had to sit in that big room alone with her for half an hour, and it was a trial. She pretended not to know that I was alive, but she had studied me from all points of view before she had been there ten minutes.

After awhile I got scared, and I began surreptitiously to muss up my hair, pull my necktie around to one side and generally disguise my many attractions. I put on the sourest face that mortal ever wore and cuffed the typewriter as if I had been a hired nurse and it a baby.

Mr. Hamlin didn't come back when he was expected, and by and by the lady took her hatchet face and cold gray eyes out of the office. I breathed a sigh of relief. It seemed to me that I had passed the inspection fairly well.

It was wonderful in the days and weeks that followed how Mr. Hamlin was always out when Mrs. Hamlin called. I grew to regard him as a supernatural being, endowed with powers of perception entirely beyond those of ordinary mortals. He must have known when she was coming. I have seen him jump right up in the middle of his work, jam his hat on and hurry away, and inside of three minutes Mrs. Hamlin would be announced.

After awhile she began to talk to me. She was always perfectly polite, perfectly cold, utterly disagreeable. She communicated absolutely nothing. It was all questions.

How could that marriage ever have happened? I used to wonder. Matches are made in heaven, they say, and surely the reasons for most of them are known only there, where all mysteries are clear.

During July, August and a part of September I saw nothing of Mrs. Hamlin. She must have been out of the city. Singularly enough—perhaps—Mr. Hamlin, though so rich and really not very busy, remained in town.

In those few months I perceived that a great danger threatened me. Kindness, uniform consideration, reasonable work, the end of worry—all produced their effect upon me. Happiness is the best tonic. Helen and I, being both at work at last, were able to send mother to the seashore, and she wrote of wonderful improvement in her health. I think Mr. Hamlin heard about her, for just before she went away he raised my salary so that the burden of added expense really did not count.

And now for the peril. With all these cheerful things happening, and despite the summer heat, I began to grow young again. I gained 15 pounds. My face looked smooth as a young girl's even in the crooked mirror at my boarding house, and I got a color like the famous milkmaid's. I trembled for Mrs. Hamlin's return.

Back she came toward the end of September, and when she first visited the office, if she had been an artist engaged to paint my picture she couldn't have studied me more closely. I was scared, and the next day I came down to the office almost in disguise. I looked just as bad as I could.

In the afternoon of that day Mr. Hamlin was standing by the window with a fieldglass in his hand, and he called me to his side to look at a beautiful steam yacht that was coming down the river.

"That's my yacht," he said. "I haven't had much chance to use her this summer, but I'm going to cruise in her nearly all winter. I can leave here all right. My brother will be free to take up the work. He's been so occupied this summer with the affairs of the Wall Street National that he's had his office in the bank building. But that's all over, and he's coming back here. So I'll go and take a rest. My health requires it."

And he laughed.

"Then you won't need me any more?" said I, and it seemed to me that I spoke calmly enough, but somehow the strength had all gone out of me, so that the fieldglass, which I was still absurdly holding at the level of my eyes, dropped from my hand.

Mr. Hamlin caught it before it reached the floor. I never saw anything so quick and dexterous as that. It was lucky for me that he was standing near, for the glass was jeweled and worth I don't know how much money.

"Oh, how fortunate!" I exclaimed. "If I had broken it"—

"If we had broken it," he interrupted, "Al's wife would have given us fits. It belongs to her. She left it here the other day, and I tell you Mrs. Al isn't a person to be trifled with. You've seen her?"

"Yes," said I as if speaking in a hypnotic trance, "but I—thought—she—was—Mrs.—Albert—Hamlin."

"You've heard her spoken of as Mrs. Al Hamlin perhaps," he said. "Al is my brother. I'm usually called Bert by my intimates. The lady in question is Mrs. Al, thank heaven! I really beg her pardon. She's a most excellent woman, but you know I'm not married, and so I speak after the disagreeable fashion of bachelors. Let me see; what were we talking about? I shouldn't need you any more or something like that. Really it's nonsense, you know. I couldn't get along without you."

"But you're going away on your yacht!"

"True, true!" said he nervously.

"Could I be of use to your brother while you are gone?" I asked. "Perhaps"—

"My brother?" said he. "Oh, no! Alfred has a secretary. You should see her, poor girl. Mrs. Alfred has curious taste in the matter of secretaries—for her husband—and you couldn't do at all. For particulars consult the mirror. You're getting more and more unfit for Alfred's secretary every day.

"Now, please, don't be offended. You must know that you're so pretty that I have to put you with your back to me in order that I may do any work at all, and even then your hair—my heart is all tangled up in it this minute and never'll get away.

"Jennie, I want you to go in the yacht with me. I want you to be my wife this very month, and then we'll sail away, heaven knows where! The sea is wide, but I will love you a year for every wave on all the oceans"—

I didn't hear any more. I died right there and woke in paradise, and he was still speaking, still telling me that he loved me—me, the homely old maid!

Bad Outlook For Wheat.

Centre Hall Reporter: From our own observation of the wheat fields of this country and from what we gather from farmers, the prospect for even half a wheat crop in Centre County is a slim one. The beginning of winter was slightly unfavorable to the fields, and up to the holidays an average crop was not in anticipation. Since the holidays the fields had scarcely any snow protection, and severe freezes were frequent up to this time, and here is where the greater injury resulted. A number of farmers have informed us the wheat in some fields are entirely killed, while in many fields there will not be enough to pay for harvesting. In such fields replowing and sowing with barley, or some other summer crop is intended. An occasional wheat field is found in fair condition. During last fall the fly did harm to the wheat in some localities.

Decrease in the Lobster Catch.

Washington, April 9.—Mr. W. De Ravenel, acting commissioner of fisheries, replying to a communication from Representative Fitzgerald regarding the lobster fishery of Massachusetts, says that statistics of the catch of lobsters in Massachusetts waters for a series of years shows that between 1880 and 1888 the yield decreased more than 2,000,000 pounds, or nearly 70 per cent. In 1880 the yield was 4,315,416 pounds, valued at $158,229; in 1892, 3,182,270 pounds, valued at $205,638; in 1898, 1,693,741 pounds, valued at $147,702. During the past five years 237,041,705 young lobsters, artificially hatched, have been liberated by the commission on the Massachusetts coast.

SEVENTEEN LIVES SACRIFICED.

The Loss by the Cloudburst Which Caused a Flood in the Colorado Will Exceed Three Million Dollars. Hundreds of Cattle Drowned.

Austin, Tex., April 9.—The terrific cloudburst in the valley of the Colorado river Saturday, which resulted in the loss of seventeen lives, caused further property loss at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when the power house of the water plant which cost the city $1,750,000 was completely destroyed. The power house lies a mass of wreckage on the edge of the river, all the valuable machinery either having been thrown into the river or badly damaged by the falling timbers.

The situation in the city is most serious. The wreckage of the plant means that it will take several weeks to secure even a temporary water and light system if it can be made possible even then. In the meantime the city will be in a bad sanitary condition. All the hotels, private residences, stores and the like are without water and there is no fire protection. Churches were unable to hold services last night for want of light, and all public meetings were abandoned. The daily newspapers are handicapped in their publications, being deprived of their electric power.

The waters of the river are still plunging and foaming around the wreck, eating away the big pile of granite which once formed the dam as though it was nothing more than chalk rock. So fierce was the current that great boulders were carried half a mile from the dam, being rolled over and over by the turbulent tide.

Reports from the neighboring country are to the effect that everything is under water. In Williamson county, north of here, railroad bridges and trackage have been laid waste and all trains have stopped running. Hundreds of head of cattle have been drowned and miles of fencing torn down and washed away. In Bastrop county and in the southern portion of this county similar conditions prevail, everything being under water, and much loss of property is reported.

The country tributary to the Colorado river all the way down its course is being inundated, and while it is believed the worst is over the loss as estimated this morning will exceed some $3,000,000, counting Austin as the largest loser.

The crops have been damaged over a wide area, but there is still time for farmers to replant if they can get the seed. Corn has been planted over once and will have to be planted the third time. The farmers as a rule have not planted much cotton because the heavy rains have kept them out of the fields. The railroads have lost many small bridges and it will be a week before traffic resumes its normal condition.

Smithville reports tremendous rains have fallen throughout that section, the main flood in the Colorado from the break in the Austin dam reaching there last evening. The river is on a 28 foot rise and is rising one foot an hour. It is estimated that over 5,000 acres of growing crops in the bottom lands within five miles of town have been inundated by from ten to fifteen feet. The loss will reach over $50,000. The stock has been drowned. No deaths have been reported in that section so far from drowning.

Cameron reports the flood in Little River now equals that of last July. The water works and power house have been overflowed. People were warned and no loss of life is reported.

Bastrop reports many families of the town are encamped out under the pavilion at Firemen's Park, while others are ready at a moment's warning to flee to the hills. The water is at a standstill at a height of over 43 feet. Bastrop is literally hemmed in by water now, and is cut off from the surrounding communities. Damage to crops, lands and stock can not be estimated, but no lives are reported lost.

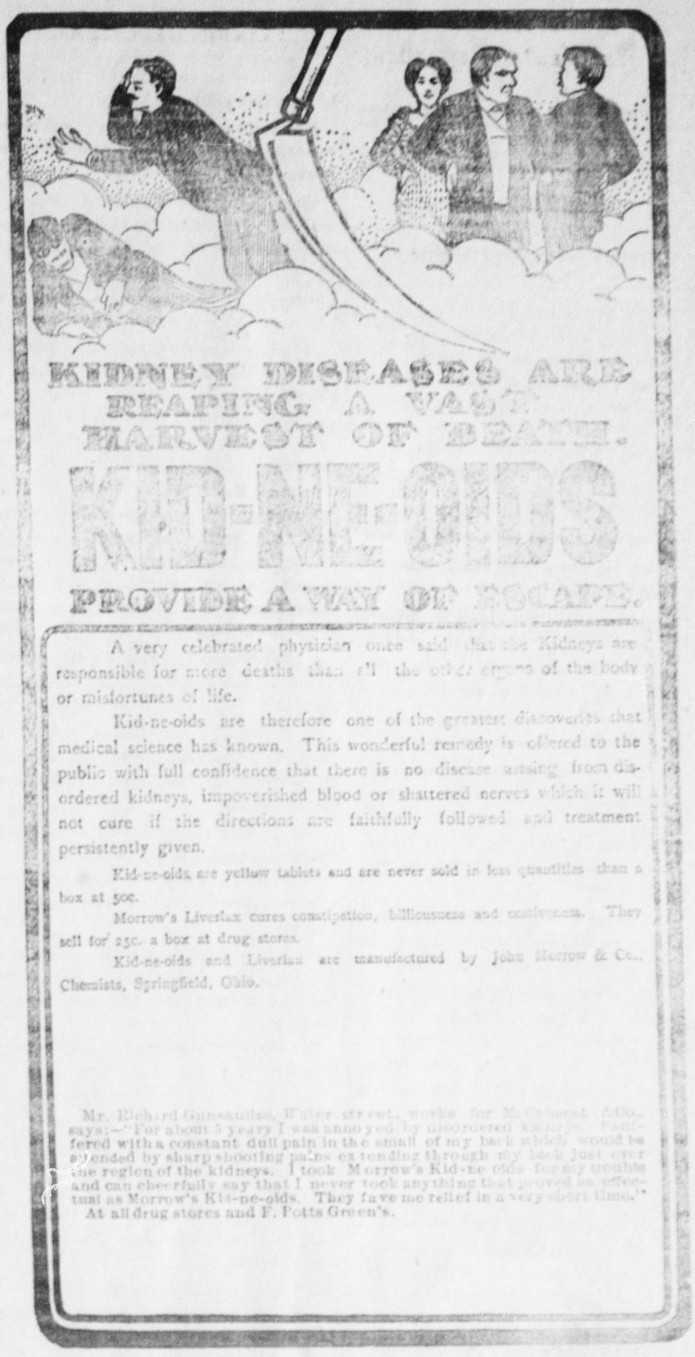
A special from Rio Grande City announces the total destruction of the corn crop in the Lower Rio Grande bottom lands. Smithville reports the Colorado river at 40 feet, and rising. All bottom lands are completely submerged and great damage has been done to the young crops, and many miles of fence have been washed away. The river is higher than it has been since 1870. The people in the bottoms have moved out to places of safety. The two wagon bridges across Gasley's creek are submerged by back water and all communication from the west side of the town is cut off. If the river continues rising through the day the Tobin Addition to the town will be under water and many cottages will be destroyed.

Factional Fight in Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Ky., April 9.—Much excitement prevails over a clash of the authorities Saturday night. Will Mosley, a special policeman, shot Charles Cecil, a deputy sheriff, and was himself later killed by unknown persons. Warrants have been sworn out for the arrest of Chief of Police King, John Mosley, a brother of the man killed, and Will Sullivan. The latter two, who were extra policemen, went with Chief of Police King to arrest a negro who had been released by the city judge. The fight is the outcome of the bitter feeling that has existed here between two factions.

The Kentucky Murder Mystery.

Frankfort, Ky., April 9.—The grand jury will continue the investigation of the Goebel assassination during this week. About 40 witnesses have been examined so far, and it is said that more than that number are on the list of those summoned who have not yet been heard. No report is expected before the latter part of the week. It is said that the names of several of the most important witnesses who have testified so far have not been disclosed and the evidence has been jealously guarded.



KIDNEY DISEASES ARE REAPING A VAST HARVEST OF DEATH.

KID-NE-OIDS PROVIDE A WAY OF ESCAPE.

A very celebrated physician once said that the Kidneys are responsible for more deaths than all the other organs of the body or misfortunes of life.

Kid-ne-oids are therefore one of the greatest discoveries that medical science has known. This wonderful remedy is offered to the public with full confidence that there is no disease arising from disordered kidneys, impoverished blood or shattered nerves which it will not cure if the directions are faithfully followed and treatment persistently given.

Kid-ne-oids are yellow tablets and are never sold in less quantities than a box at 50c.

Morrow's Liverlax cures constipation, billiousness and costiveness. They sell for 25c. a box at drug stores.

Kid-ne-oids and Liverlax are manufactured by John Morrow & Co., Chemists, Springfield, Ohio.

Mr. Richard Gunsauliss, Water street, works for McClintock & Co., says:—"For about 5 years I was annoyed by disordered kidneys. I suffered with a constant dull pain in the small of my back which would be suspended by sharp shooting pains extending through my back just over the region of the kidneys. I took Morrow's Kid-ne-oids for my trouble and can cheerfully say that I never took anything that proved as effectual as Morrow's Kid-ne-oids. They gave me relief in a very short time." When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled in 20 years. How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Advantages of the Larger Tank.

The change from small tanks to large ones on the Pennsylvania railroad has been remarkably sudden. The work in the tank departments of the different shops has been brisk for some months and as a result most of the engines are now attached to huge tanks which have a capacity for 6.000 gallons of water and 30.000 pounds of coal. Although the Pennsylvania has track tanks, it was found that a larger engine tank saved delays and was more economical.

Interesting Services.

Very interesting services were held in the Presbyterian church at Milesburg on Sunday evening. Rev. Dr. Laurie delivered a highly interesting and instructive sermon to a very large and attentive audience. After the sermon the Doctor, assisted by Rev. J. P. Hughes, administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Nine new members were added to the church by confession of faith. Rev. W.O. Wright, who has been the pastor of this congregation for more than thirty-two years, and indeed their only pastor, on account of severe illness, has asked to be relieved of active ministerial labor, and in view of this fact, this service practically closed his pastorate with that church.

The long service of Rev. Wright and his intimate association with the pastor and people of the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, led quite a number of them to attend these services, and Judge Furst, speaking for the Bellefonte congregation, paid a high tribute to the personal worth, and invaluable services of the retiring pastor. Dr. Laurie and Rev. THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

Election Passed Off Quietly and Light Vote Cast—Both Quay and Anti-Quay Forces Claim Victory.

From Monday's Daily News.

The Republican primary election for delegates to the county convention which meets in this place tomorrow was held throughout Centre County Saturday afternoon and evening. Everything passed off very quietly and a remarkably light vote was cast. The object of tomorrows convention is the election of two delegates to the State Convention at Harrisburg. Centre County is entitled to two delegates to the state convention and so the only contest at Saturday's primaries was on instructions for State delegates.

C. P. Long, of Spring Mills, and W. M. Mellick, of Philipsburg, were the Anti-Quay candidates while William E. Gray, of Bellefonte, and P. E. Womeldorf of Philipsburg, were the Quay candidates. It was supposed that there was to be no fight this time for state delegates but at the last minute the Quay people placed a ticket in the field.

The result of the election is very close with the chances in favor of the election of Long and Mellick although both sides are claiming the victory. As there are very few uninstructed delegates there will be no chance to work on them. Tomorrow's convention promises to be the warmest held in Centre County for some time.

The result in Bellefonte was a victory for the Anti-Quay people as they carried the North and West wards but lost the South. The vote in Bellefonte was as follows:

North Ward—Long 108, Mellick 98, Gray 69, Womeldorf, 59.
South Ward—Long 20, Mellick 16, Gray 55, Womeldorf 51.
West Ward—Long and Mellick 35, Gray and Womeldorf 7.

A WISE MOVEMENT.

Bellefonte Furnace Relief Fund Association Form Permanent Organization.

The employees of the Bellefonte Furnace set on foot a short time ago a project for the organization of a relief fund association. Some of the men made a canvass and it was found that all of the men were willing to join except four and a temporary organization was formed. Since then the movement has grown until it embraces not only the furnace men but all the employees at Scotia, Red Bank and Mattern ore mines, the Bellefonte Lime Company's quarries at Salona and Central Railroad of Pennsylvania. About six hundred men are now included in the association.

Tuesday evening a permanent organization was formed. A constitution and by-laws was adopted and the following officers elected: President: William Wilkins; Secretary, A. Boyd Cowher; Treasurer, L. T. Munson. The board of directors includes the three named above and five others, William Frank, Joseph Wise, John Love Sr., Robert Kline and William Foor.

The organization is known as the Bellefonte Furnace Relief Fund Association and its plan includes among other things a sick benefit of $5.00 per week.

Many Emigrants Coming.

In the past two weeks forty car loads of emigrants have passed through Pittsburg on the P. R. R., and thirty-four on the B. and O., making a total of seventy four car loads in twelve days. An official of the P. R. R., says that more than 45,000 emigrants from Europe will pass through over their line this summer. He expects the emigrant travel to be heavier than for many years, and say that the better class of people are coming here and will take up farms in the west.
